ON THE PROCEDURE FOR ORGANIZING ACADEMIC MOBILITY OF STUDENTS OF HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS

REGULATION

Chapter 1. General provisions

1. This Regulation establishes the procedure for organizing and implementing academic mobility of students studying at the bachelor's and master's levels of higher education institutions in cooperation with higher education institutions of the Republic of Uzbekistan (hereinafter referred to as higher education institutions) and foreign higher education institutions.

Legislative acts, including cases not specified in these Regulations, are regulated in accordance with the mutual agreement agreements signed by higher education institutions.

2. Academic mobility is organized for the following purposes:

creating opportunities for students to study at higher education institutions with established leading scientific schools;

improving the quality of knowledge and level of development of students;

creating opportunities for students to receive education, taking into account their need to study in another region;

familiarization with the achievements and experiences of foreign and local education systems;

acquiring practical skills and qualifications in the specialty;

establishing partnerships with higher education institutions;

creating the necessary conditions for the integration of education.

3. The compatibility of the form of education, course and field of study (specialization) is the main condition for the implementation of academic mobility of students of higher education institutions.

4. The following basic concepts are used in this Regulation:

academic mobility - the movement (sending) of a student from a higher education institution to another higher education institution, local (within the republic) or external (international, foreign) for the purpose of studying for a certain period of time;

Credit recognition - the transfer and recognition of credits earned under an educational program at one higher education institution to another higher education institution in order to ensure a student's academic mobility;

mobility program - an academic mobility program organized on the basis of a mutual education agreement between two or more higher education institutions;

educational agreement - a document signed jointly between two or more higher education institutions, ensuring that a student will study for a certain period of time under an academic mobility program established on the basis of a mutual education agreement;

transcript - a document of a prescribed form containing a list of subjects with an indication of the credits and grades acquired during the relevant period of study in letters and numbers;

receiving higher education institution - a higher education institution that accepts a student for study on the basis of an academic mobility program established in accordance with a mutual education agreement;

Sending higher education institution - a higher education institution that sends a student to study under an academic mobility program established in accordance with a mutual education agreement.

Chapter 2. Organization of academic mobility

5. The duration of academic mobility must be at least one semester or a maximum of two semesters, based on the mutual agreement between higher education institutions (exceptionally, the duration may be changed in accordance with the agreement concluded with a foreign partner higher education institution).

A student may participate in academic mobility a second time in accordance with additional agreements between higher education institutions.

6. Academic mobility is carried out by order of the rector (director) of the higher education institution in accordance with the mutual education agreement signed between higher education institutions.

7. The overall process of implementing academic mobility is coordinated by the educational and methodological department (department) of the higher education organization. In this case, the organization of academic mobility in cooperation with a foreign higher education organization is carried out jointly with the international relations department (department) of the higher education organization.

The tasks of departments (departments) of a higher education organization for the organization and coordination of academic mobility are determined by the rector (director) of the higher education organization.

The general leadership of the organization of academic mobility is entrusted to the vice-rector (deputy director) for academic affairs, while other organizational matters are entrusted to the head of the relevant department and the deans of the faculty.

8. Students for academic mobility are accepted or sent based on the available resources of each higher education institution.

9. A separate section on academic mobility will be created on the official website of the higher education institution. This section will contain information on partner higher education institutions, academic mobility programs (by field of study and specialization), the application procedure, deadlines, documents to be submitted (to be uploaded electronically), stages of application review, and other information for those wishing to study within the framework of academic mobility.

At the same time, this information is constantly monitored and updated by the responsible and relevant departments.

10. The organization of academic mobility of professors, teachers and research staff is carried out on the basis of a mutual agreement between higher education institutions.

11. Students are selected for academic mobility based on conditions established separately by the rectors (directors) of the sending and receiving higher education institutions.

In this case, the rector (director) of the higher education institution takes into account the abilities of students, their performance indicators, and the existing capabilities of the higher education institution (material and technical base, level of provision with professors and teachers, and the impact of academic mobility on the teaching workload of professors and teachers).

The rectors (directors) of higher education institutions are responsible for conducting the selection of applicants in a fair, transparent manner, without creating conflicts of interest.

12. The quality of education may be monitored by representatives of partner higher education institutions.

13. After completing the period of study at the partner higher education institution, the student submits a transcript confirming the subjects, grades (scores) or credits he/she has mastered to the educational and methodological department (department) of the higher education institution where he/she is receiving his/her main education.

14. Credits accumulated by students during the academic mobility period in specific semester subjects in the curriculum of the sending higher education institution will be recognized accordingly.

If a student fails to accumulate the required credits during the academic mobility period or if a difference in subjects is identified, he or she may, with the written permission of the rector (director) of the sending higher education institution, acquire credits in these subjects at the higher education institution where he or she will study on a paid basis.

The rector (director) of the sending higher education institution determines the terms of recognition of the credits accumulated by the student participating in academic mobility, their recognition as academic debtors for subjects not mastered, and their mastery.

15. Students may not participate in the academic mobility program in the first semester of the first year, the last semester of the graduate year, or the semester following the last semester in which a student who has been transferred from one course to another may study.

16. Financial matters, including financing of contracts, scholarship payments and other expenses of students participating in academic mobility, will be carried out in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in the mutual agreement signed by higher education institutions.

Chapter 3. Procedure for organizing academic mobility in partner higher education institutions

17. A student wishing to carry out academic mobility in a similar or related field, if there is a mutual agreement with a partner higher education institution, shall submit an application to the rector (electronically at the end of the fall and spring semesters), attaching the following set of information:

student's FIO, faculty and group;

purpose of the trip;

intended destination;

duration of the trip (the duration of academic mobility must be at least one semester and a maximum of two semesters);

18. In the event of a positive decision to send someone on a trip for mobility purposes, documents on sending someone on a trip will be issued in accordance with the established procedure.

19. The terms for completing the academic mobility program are determined individually in accordance with the academic calendar of the partner higher education institution.
